The information we collect:

We process personal data including and not limited to:

- Name and job title.
- Contact information including e-mail address and telephone number.
- Invoice and delivery addresses.
- Medical records and supporting documentation (for the performance of our legal services).

Legal grounds for processing your information:

We will rely on the following legal bases under the UKGDPR to process your personal data:

1. Consent.
2. Performance of a contract.
3. Legal obligation.
4. Vital interest.
5. Public interest or exercise of official authority.
6. Legitimate interest pursued by the controller or 3rd party.

7. To accurately complete conflict of interest searches.
8. Provide a means to monitor when cases are concluded and when sensitive personal/special category claimant data needs to be securely destroyed.

How we collect your information:

Voluntary Information

You may provide us this information when completing forms and contracts, corresponding via the telephone, e-mail or we may meet you at an event or exhibition.

Our legal services involve the collation and analysis of confidential claimant medical records which are provided to us on a voluntary basis by you (or your legal representatives).

Involuntary information when you visit our website

We may gain information that we gather through our monitoring of visits to our website. We use Google Analytics and cookies in order to improve our service, user experience and to analyse how the website is used.

Aside from the approximate location (IP address), the information collected is mostly anonymous traffic data including browser information, device information and language.

We do not collect any additional information which could be classified as personal via these means.

Cookie Policy:

Cookies may be used to gather analytics and assist with management of the DMR Collation website. Our website hosting service uses web analytics services to improve the usability and design of our customer experience. These services may record anonymous mouse clicks, mouse movements, and scrolling activity, but they never use them to collect personally identifiable information from you. We only use this data internally to help us understand and enhance your website experience and do not use cookies to identify individuals nor do we store personal information in cookies.

How we process your information:

We collect and process data for the following reasons:

- to perform our services.
- to ensure we can fulfil our service levels to a high standard.
- internal record keeping.
- to improve our products and services.
- to ensure that our website is presented in the most effective manner.
- our legal requirements as a UK registered business.
- to communicate with our partners.
- to market our products and service (see Marketing below).

We will also provide information to third party contractors, when it is necessary to fulfil your service requirements. These include but are not limited to Collation/Analysis systems & self-employed Medical Analysts to assist with collation and analysis work.

We only process your data in the UK. In all circumstances the information obtained will be retained and utilised in accordance with all applicable laws in particular, the Data Protection Act 2018 and the UK GDPR. Accordingly, we will maintain and protect the confidentiality and integrity of your information.

Marketing:

We may from time to time contact you to make you aware of new products and services, unless you explicitly request us not to do so.

If you no longer wish to receive such communications, you can opt out by emailing us at support@dmrcollation.co.uk and by adding "Withdrawal of consent" in your email title.

We never share your name and contact details with third parties for marketing purposes unless this relates to a testimonial which you have given us express consent to use.

Data security:

We are committed to ensuring that your information is secure. In order to prevent unauthorised access or disclosure we have put in place suitable physical, electronic and managerial procedures to safeguard and secure your information.

It is our policy that no client data will be provided to any external party by DMR Collation whether or not that data is already within the public domain.

DMR Collation will not disclose client information of any type to any third party, for any reason other than fulfilling our legal services, legal obligation or enforcing our terms of business.

Data retention:

We will only retain your personal data for as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes we collected it for. This includes for the purposes of satisfying any legal, accounting, or reporting requirements.

How long will we keep personal data?

- For active clients we will retain data for as long as you remain active.
- For inactive clients we will retain data for accounting purposes only.

- On request of an 'unsubscribe' or a specific request not to be contacted, personal data will be transferred to a suppression list.
- We will keep personal data in our database for our own internal records.

Your Legal Rights:

Under certain circumstance, you have a legal right under data protection laws in respect of your personal data. Your rights are listed below:

- Request access to your personal data
- Update/amend inaccuracies or changes to your personal data.
- Opt out of e-mail marketing by emailing support@dmrcollation.co.uk with "Withdrawal of consent" in the email title.
- Request for processing of your personal data to be restricted.
- Be informed of what lawful basis we are relying on for the processing of your personal data.
- Request erasure of your personal data.
- You have the right to make a complaint at any time to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO), the UK supervisory authority for data protection issues. We would, however, appreciate the chance to deal with your concerns before you approach the ICO so please contact us in the first instance.
- Request transfer of your personal data

If you wish to exercise any of the rights set out above, please contact our Data Protection Officer, Adam Fisher, on support@dmrcollation.co.uk.

We will respond to all legitimate requests within one month. Occasionally it may take us longer than a month if your request is particularly complex or you have made a number of requests. In these instances, we will notify you and keep you updated.

You will not have to pay a fee to access your personal data (or to exercise any of the other rights). However, we may charge a reasonable fee if your request is unfounded, repetitive or excessive. Alternatively, we may refuse to comply with your request in these circumstances.
